

Speaking more languages than the own mother tongue has become an important need, both professionally and personally, emphasizing English as the main international language.

At work, its fluency is essential to take on new staff and required by companies.

In our personal lives we like travelling, more and more, around the world, meeting new cultures, countries and people. English, as the second most spoken language in the world, is the most indispensable way to communicate everywhere.